

Chautauqua DRAFT Schedule for 2017-18 Transformations Series

All Events held in O'Donnell Hall at 7:30 PM (except *)

FALL 2017

Sept 7 – Sara Goldrick-Rab, “The Transformation of Higher Education: The New Economics of College and their Consequences”

Sept 14 – Sylvester James Gates, Jr., “Einstein v. Roberts: Does Diversity Matter in Science?” – Keynote Address for Celebration of Science Week

Sept 28 – Julissa Arce, “An American DREAMer: from Undocumented to Wall Street to Immigration Advocacy.” – Keynote for Hispanic Heritage Month

Oct 5 – “Hillbilly”, the Documentary: 100 Years of Appalachia in TV and Film.” Filmmaker Sally Rubin presents scenes from a work-in-progress. – Special Event for Appalachian Studies Week

Oct 11 (WED) – Rebecca Goldstein: “The Transformation of the Ancient Greeks and the Making of Philosophy” – Ron Messerich Distinguished Lecture in Philosophy and Religion

Nov 16 – Kelli Carmean – “Mayan Transformations: Historical Fact and Creative Fiction” – Keynote Address for Native American Heritage Month

Nov 30 – Pam Soltis, “Transformation and Conservation: Climate Change and the Southern Landscape” – Bruce Maclaren Distinguished Lecture

SPRING 2018

Jan 25 – “Transformations” National Juried Art Exhibition, Opening Reception, *Giles Gallery, Campbell Building. Exhibition runs from Jan 22 – Feb 16.

Feb 1 - Lee Dugatkin, “Rapid Evolution: How to Tame a Fox and Build a Dog”

Feb 15 – Jocelyn A. Wilson, “The Outkast Imagination: Hip Hop Education and Transformative Pedagogy.” – Black History Month Keynote Address

Mar 1 – Maryanne Wolf, “Literacy in the Digital Age: Transformations of the Reading Brain”

Mar 22 – Kimberly Hoang, “Dealing in Desire, Playing in the Gray: Ethnography, Economics and Identities” (tentative title). – Combined Women’s History and Asian Studies Keynote Address

Apr 5 – Robert Frank, “Success and Luck: Good Fortune and the Myth of Meritocracy”

Apr 19 – Robert Darnton, “Censorship and Literary Transformation: Bourbon France, British India and Communist East Germany” – Distinguished Lecture in International Studies.